

FIGURE 24-13. A nod lift-off motion can also be performed supported on a high incline. The patient is instructed to nod to the point of cervical spine neutral, and then just lift the head off the supporting surface to take the weight of the head as resistance. The neutral posture of the neck must be maintained, not allowing dominant superficial muscles to cause a chin poke of anterior translation.

Hall & Brody: The rapeutic Exercise: Moving Toward Function, 2nd Edition © 2005, Lippin cott Williams and Wilkins